

Beyond this learning event

This learning event should not be an end in itself. It should trigger you to change certain practices related to MfDR in your work and in your organisation.

A personal action plan is the first step towards this change and this outline is meant to support you while preparing this action plan.

Steps:

1. Identify all learning points that there have been in this course and list those below.
For this purpose, please make use of your personal logbook.
2. Select, based on these learning point, the 5 most important possible actions within your reach and elaborate those in more detail on the next page.
3. Use this action plan for presenting your experiences and learning once you are back in the office and for follow-up.
